Omissions

LAC LA BICHE — Your reporter wishes to correct some errors and omissions in the recent report on the Lions Club Amateur Night. Several names of business men who had contributed merchandise vouchers were overlooked. They were Lac la Biche Mercantile; OK Motors; Lac la Biche Sale and Service; Charles Lebas; Imeprial Oil; G. Hominiuk and York Cafe. Our sincere apologies to these business men.

While our face is still red, we would also mention that the Policeman's Drill, a group of boys trained by Sster Mary, with costumes designed by Mrs. A. Mastaler, was not mentioned as having performed in the program at the Awards Night. Sister Mary also trained the girls chorus, so beautifully rendered that evening. We greatly regret these ommissions.

THE Homemaker

District Home Economist, Westlock

By Bertha M. McCutcheon

Twenty billion dollars a year, spent on consumer goods in Canada, vitally affect the well being of our families and our national economy. Consumers as well as producers and distributors need to share in the planning of this great market.

Now, throughout the world, there is a growing consciousness of people as consumers, a growing awareness of the need for them to experss their wishes about goods which come to market, and the way those goods are marketed. But in 1947 the women whose vision led to the creation of the Canadian Association of Consumers were truly pioneers. Other countries then had consumer advisers to standards boards, and there were testing groups issuing consumer reports of comparative testing; but no country had a democratic, voluntary consumer organization open to any person in the country, an organization which coudd receive, assess, and express consumer opinion from a wide cross-section of the nation's shoppers. Canadian women established a very important first!

B. McCutcheon

With a growing network of local branches, with provincial branches in nine provinces, all jointed in one national organization, CAC has grown from a vision of those pioneers to a force in Canadian affairs. At present about 28,000 women are members of CAC, many more support it through the sixteen national women's organizations which participate in th work. All help to shape policy and to direct the effort.

What has this work been? To name a few accomplishments: regulations requiring improvement in packaging and labelling; red stripes off bacon; weights included on soap and detergent packages; weights expressed clearly in appropriate sized print with other pertinent facts on the main face of food packages; and we are now asking that these weights be extended to include bar and cake soaps, and detergents. Without regulations, merely as the result of frequent requests to packagers, staples those unwelcome additions to the fried pears, the raisins, or the soup mix) have almost entirely disappeared.

With the support of the textile industry CAC sought and obtained regulations for the true labelling of textiles. Fibre content need not be mentioned; but, if it is mentioned on the label, the fibres must be listed in order of content, and no fibre may be mentioned if it composes less than 5% of the fabric. More recently, three members of CAC's national executive committee met with representatives of the textile industry and discusses the need for better labelling of Canadian fabrics and garments, so that women would know what service to expect from these and how to care for them.

For a number of years, CAC representatives have been working with garment manufacturers, retailers, pattern makers and research workers on a government committee setting up standard sizes for children's garments. CAC worked to get this committee set up, and now, at last, the work is finished. Standards are established based on actual body measurements. and we hope to see the first standard sized garments by this fall, with more to follow. When the full range of clothing is available in standard sizes, tiring shopping tours with many try-ons and frequent exchanges should be avaided by the mother who selects garments bearing the Canada Standard Size label.

CAC is still working on off-grain material, belts and, many other textile problems.

CAC has continued its fight against costly sales promotion methods, such as premiums in packages, and the use of trading stamps, those costly aditions which raise costs and distract the shopper from true value. It has encouraged careful study of the use and the cost of credit buying and has sought legislation which would require full and clear disclosure, in every advertisement and sales contract, of the total cost of installment buying. CAC has prepared and distributed to all its members a pamphlet, Credit Costs Money, which gives information on how to shop for credit.

Alberta Plans Exempt Shelters From Taxation

Premier Manning announced that his government plans to exempt home fallout shelters from municipal taxation.

He said in an interview that the government will introduce a bill at the next regular session of the legislature which would exempt the shelters from property assessment.

The move is a switch in government policy. Only a few weeks ago Premier Manning said that shelters should not be exempt from taxes.

The government sets out what municipalities may tax under the Assessment and City Acts.

Premier Manning said he hopes the tax exemption will induce people to provide their own fallout shelters.

He said he asked Prime Minister Diefenbaker by letter to make fallout shelters mandatory in new homes before a government loan is granted. He also suggested that present housing loans be increased $500 to $700 so homeowners may build shelters without a cash outlay.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the suggestions were helpful and would be considered, Premier Manning said.

There are any number of ideas that we do not choose to express in these paragraphs.

Lac La Biche Village Council Plans Fire Insurance Coverage For Rink

LAC LA BICHE — At the regular meeting of the town council, Nov. 28, the decision was made to proceed with an application to have flashing light signals installed at the main railway crossing on the St. Paul highway.

While the town will be required to pay part of the cost of the installation and maintenance of the system, the matter was considered of sufficient importance to justify the comparatively small percentage of the total cost which the town will be obliged to share. The installation is not expected to start until sometime in 1962.

A building permit was approvel for a home owner who will be installing a metal type of siding to the exterior of his dwelling.

Instructions were given the secretary to arrange for fire insurance coverage for the skating rink which is nearing completion.

Wage agreements with three of the town's employees were given approval.

Present for the meeting were: Councillors Vincent, Bouvier, Shanks, Badry, Wolstenholme and secretary Creighton.

In the absence of the mayor, deputy mayor L. H. Vincent presided.

Beauvallon UCLW Aids Scholarship

The group decided to send $5 to the UCWL executive in Edmonton as a contribution toward the $100 scholarship offered annually by the Alberta branch of the UCWL to the student with the highest academic standing in the Ukrainian language at the University of Alberta.

Viking And Thorsby To Lack Water Unless Thaw Starts

Unless thawing weather allows provincial government crews to pump water into town reservoirs, the towns of Viking and Thorsby could be without water supplies by the end of the year.

Mayor Tony Lefsrud of Thorsby said the situation in his community of 550 persons 50 miles southwest of Edmonton is desperate. He said that the town's water supply, from a dammed creek, could run out by Christmas. He said there is little water in the creek now and continuing cold weather could freeze it to the bottom. "I don't know what we'll do if we don't have water pumped in," he said. "I guess we'll have to truck it in until spring, and really ration it."

At Viking, 80 miles southeast of Edmonton, the situation is nearly as desperate. Town officials there said the reservoir, has only 2 feet of water in it, which could freeze solidly this winter. Normal spring run-dff into the reservoir is about 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 gallons. This year, the runoff totalled only 1,500,000 gallons.

The provincial government department of agriculture has gone to the aid of Viking but a series of problems has hampered replenishing the reservoir's supply. Pipes were laid seven miles to a large slough to pump in water, but a cold snap froze the water in the pipes, causing a number of breaks.

Crews have not been able to restore the line since last week and now fear that unless there is a warm spell to thaw the pipes, there is little hope any water will be pumped this winter.

Crews were scheduled to complete the pumping operation at Viking in about 10 days and then move to Thorsby. However, unless a warm spell comes, there is little hope of Thorsby receiving any aid, officials of the town said Thursday.

At Holden crews successfully pumped 5,000,000 gallons of water into the town's reservoir before moving to Viking.

Sask. Medical Plan Definite Now

The last legislative action of the Saskatchewan legislature before prorogation Friday afternoon gave third and final reading to the bill establishing the provincial medical care plan.

CCF members in the house voted for it. The final count stood 30 in favor and 16 opposed.

Mannville Welding Shop Demolished By Flames

The building owned by Universal Industries, Edmonton, and operated by Kasper Dzuibaty of Mannville as a welding shop, was completely demolished by fire about 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 25. The frame building, estimated at 80 ft. long by 30 ft. wide, has been in the present location since 1914, south of the Old Fore Hall, now known as the Oldtimers' Cabin.

The fire is believed to have started in the office used by Mr. James McCauley, and it is reported a desk and some papers were salvaged before the blaze got out of hand. Insurance is reported on the building, but Mr. Dzuibaty had unfortunately overlooked renewing his policy on the contents.

It is a fortunate thing that there was no wind to speak of, or the fire would have taken other buildings on either side and down that street.

Despite valiant attempts by the local brigade, the fire was a blazing inferno, due to the dry wood condition, and could not be checked. An excellent job was noted however, of keeping the fire from getting a hold on the business of C. A. Swain, implement and feeds, south of McKinnons, the close building directly south owned by Neil MacKinnon, retired carpenter shop. Two or three times the eaves of this had caught fire, when hoses were turned on and the flame extinguished.

The crowd of spectators, large, even on such a chilly night, lent moral support to the fire brigade, calling encouragement to the weary firemen.

GERANIUM CUTTINGS FOR WINTER USE

The geranium, no doubt, is the favorite flower to grow indoors or out; and probably no flower is more generally cultivated in America. There are very few homes large or small that do not have a few plants giving forth their blossoms.

Geraniums cannot be expected to bloom summer and winter, so now is a good time to take cuttings to bloom later. However, these cuttings should be kept disbudded until January 1.

Make each cutting at the node just below a leaf. A cutting can be four or five inches in length. Remove the leaves from that part of the stem that is going into the soil.

Do not plant the cuttings immediately. Leave them in the shade for a day. This gives the wounded cells a chance to heal over and thereby reduces danger of damping-off.

Plant by inserting the lower end of the stem in clean, sharp sand or a mixture of half peat and half sand. Water carefully. Then place them in a light but shaded spot, so they won't get the direct rays of the sun. A fruit jar may be inverted over each cutting to help reduce evaporation of moisture from the soil as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

When the cuttings are well rooted, in about five to eight weeks, plant each in a pot as shown. A four-inch one is large enough.

Present Safety Recommendations Confuse Vegreville Audience

VEGREVILLE — The regular meeting of the St. Martin's Home and School Association was held on Nov. 22. A fair crowd attended.

Following the business and committee reports, Mr. McNally, the Edmonton Civil Defence and Emergency Measure representative, was called upon.

He showed a film on nuclear fallout protection. He addressed the gathering and conducted a question period.

The safety measures, such as fallout shelters, were received with little enthusiasm and a feeling of confusion as to whether safety recommendations were all they are claimed to be.

It appeared there was too much time, energy and money spent on safety and precaution measures, and not sufficient on a direct and sincere effort by all concerned, from the highest ranking government official down to the most insignificant individual towards the prevention of a nuclear war.

One individual remarked, "It almost sounds and appears as though we are preparing and anticipating nuclear warfare, much the same as one prepares for winter or some other such occurance which we cannot prevent."

Mr. McNally agreed that children, especially those in the primary grades, should not be subject to much, if any, of the aspects of a nuclear war and its safeguards.

Children can do nothing to help, prevent, or assist in safety in such a conflict. Their young minds could be warped and crippled by a created hysteria of a disaster which we hope will never materialize.

Despite the differences of opinions, the members of St. Martin's Home and School Association are indebted and thankful to Mr. McNally for his time and efforts. He capably and sincerely described the aims and objects of the department he represents.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

ARE YOU AFRAID OF FEAR?

Franklin Delano Roosevelt, in his first inaugural address, said, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

With these simple words, Mr. Roosevelt stated a great truth. Fear can maim and destroy and kill. Fear itself can do as much damage to a human being as the things which he usually fears.

Christ came against fear. Again and again in the Bible he said, "Be not afraid, but believe." Christ said this because he knew that fear was an enemy of abundant life. When a person is bound by fear he cannot be prosperous. And he cannot be healthy for long because fear is a killer.

I heard a story once about a man who was in a state prison for theft. He managed to escape and run away. His escape was noticed immediately, however, and he was pursued by several guards and dogs. In sheer terror, he dashed into the heavy brush country surrounding the prison and began to clamber up a steep cliff. As he was climbing up the ledge, he was bitten by a snake.

When his pursuers came near, he ran toward them screaming that he had been bitten by a rattlesnake. He was immediately rushed to a hospital, where he died soon after arrival. Examination of the snake later revealed that it was not poisonous. The man had died from fright and shock.

God does not want you to be afraid. He is against fear. Fear is negative. God wants you to enjoy abundant life. You can do this by replacing your fear with faith. Remember the statement by President Roosevelt, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

Know that Christ is the master of fear. He is the giver of abundant life.

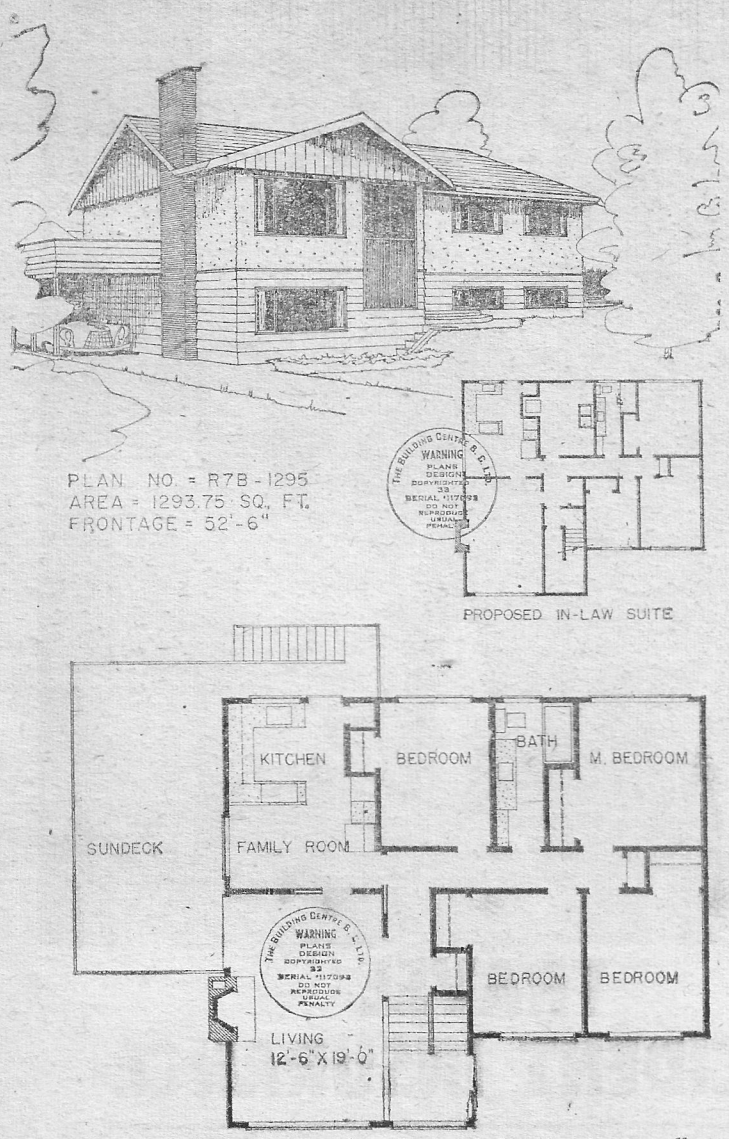
MAXIMUM USE OF SPACE



Exceptional livability with maximum use of every square foot of space is provided in this four bedroom home of modest square footage, which is one of the most inexpensive houses for its size in the standard construction class.

The cathedral type entry makes a luxury size foyer, with plenty of daylight through the large window over the door. A feeling of spaciousness is given to the 12'6" x 19' living room by the use of a stub wall at the entry—the living room opens onto a king size sun deck over the carport, which continues around to the back and provides access to the combination kitchen - dining - family room.

Design of this house allows a three dimensional function — the fourth bedroom adjacent to the kitchen could be used as a dining room by opening it up to the kitchen, or it could be a den or sewing room.

Vertical and horizontal siding combine with stucco to add to the exterior appearance of this very practical house, which could be enhanced by the addition of planters etc., when feasible.

A proposed "in-law" suite could be added to the basement area—blueprints are also available for this as well as for the plan itself.

Plan No. 1295 is designed for N.H.A. approval, and blueprints are available from the Building Centre, 116 E. Broadway, Vancouver, B.C. Write for free plan book, "Select Home Designs", enclosing 25c to cover cost of mailing and handling.

Believe Patients Happier Knowing About Cancer

The dean of medicine at the University of Alberta, Dr. Walter MacKenzie, says that cancer patients are happier when they knew the truth about their disease.

Speaking to the Edmonton District Council of the Canadian Cancer Society he said many doctors are beginning to appreciate this and we are telling more people the truth today than ever before. He said the aura of mystery and subterfuge is eliminated and there is a period of understanding in which the patient and family know the exact situation.

Dr. MacKenzie said he is "perfectly convinced" the more you and I encourage patients to say they had cancer — adequate treatment — and have a good chance of a cure" — the more happiness there will be in the homes of people where this dread disease is hid.

An Edmonton banker, J. C. Brennan, has been elected president of the Edmonton and District Council of the Canadian Cancer Society. Mr. Brennan succeeds T. D. Baker, the deputy superintendent of the Edmonton Public School Board.

The society's vice-presidents are James Kellas and Paul Guenette of Edmonton.
